GOVERNOR-ELECT TELLS OF FIGHT BEING MADE AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Says State Department of Health is Doing Wonderful Work to Prevent Disease

FINAL MEETING IS HELD

Report of Monessen Dispensary Made By Dr. Cramer, Showing Large Number of Cases Treated

At the closing meeting of a three-days' session of the State Tuberculosis Exhibit at Monessen Opera House last night, Governor-elect J. K. Tener presided and made a short address in which he told something of the work that is being done to prevent the spread of the White Plague over the State. He introduced the other speakers of the evening, Dr. M. J. Cramer of Monessen, who is in charge of the local dispensary, and Dr. John A. Brouse, who is in charge of the exhibit.

Mr. Tener in his speech said that in his travels over the State during his campaign he was surprised and astounded at the work being done by the State Department of Health towards preventing tuberculosis and to save lives. He said that in this respect Pennsylvania was a leader among the States of the Union, and made the statement that while many were finding fault with the size of appropriations which were being made by the State to carry on the fight he thought that from the evidences of the good that is being done it was not too much and that if any change were made it should be for an increase.

Dr. M. J. Cramer made a report of the work that has been done by the Monessen dispensary during the past year. He said that 343 cases have been reported, 210 of which were positive. Forty were in the last stages. Twenty-two deaths resulted from the disease. The nurse in charge made 2,045 visits to patients, and patients made 2,052 visits to the dispensary. Eleven had been sent to the sanitarium at Mount Alto.

Dr. Brouse spoke of the work that is being done to prevent the spread of the disease. The exhibit goes to Monongahela today.

TO STANDARDIZE CAR COUPLERS

Inter-State Commerce Commission Makes New Ruling

Beginning with January next all bumpers and couplers on freight cars throughout the country will have to be located in exactly the same place. This order, emanating from the Inter-State Commerce Commission, is being hailed with delight. Owing to the many accidents in many instances, fatal, happening to the trainmen agitation was started some time ago looking for a uniform system by which the couplers and bumpers would be standardized.

TRAFFIC TIED UP BY SLIGHT WRECK

Trouble Caused by Freight at Black Diamond Early This Morning

A wreck of a freight train this morning at Black Diamond, was responsible for a tie-up in traffic for some hours. The wreck happened about 4 o'clock, and although a wreck train was immediately summoned to the scene, the debris was not cleared away before about 7 o'clock. The train north leaving Charleroi shortly before 6 o'clock and the train south arriving at Charleroi a 6:30 o'clock were both held back. The latter did not arrive in Charleroi until about 7:35 o'clock.

WILL TAKE FIRST REST AFTER HARD CAMPAIGN

Governor-Elect Tener to go With Wife and Party for Week's Sojourn Along Barnagat Bay

Tonight Governor-elect J. K. Tener and Mrs. Tener will leave in company with Mr. and Mrs. George E. Tener of Sewickley and Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Walton of Philadelphia, for a week's sojourn at Harvey Cedars, on Barnagat Bay along the New Jersey coast. This will be the first opportunity for the newly elected State executive to take a rest after his hard campaign, and he intends to make the most of it.

Mr. Tener has not announced further plans after his voting, but he will probably spend the remainder of the time between the date of his return and the convening of Congress at home. Mr. Tener is the representative of the Twenty-fourth district in Congress and will doubtless serve in that capacity until shortly before his inauguration as Governor on January 1. Congress convenes on December 5.

TRUE BILL IS RETURNED IN MURDER CASE

Donora Foreigner Held For Trial on Charge of Shooting Man

After being indicted by the grand jury yesterday for the murder of Tedor Cap at Donora and for felonious assault and battery on Josephine Cap, wife of the murdered man, Pete Kurkovski is today in jail awaiting to go on trial for his life. The case has made a record in reaching court for trial. The alleged crime was committed on Tuesday, the murderer captured a few hours after the crime and brought before the grand jury yesterday. The trial is scheduled for next week but it is doubtful whether it will take place then, owing to the fact that the counsel for the defendant will probably need more time to prepare a defense.

CONVIVIAL MINER PLAYS WITH GUN ONCE TOO OFTEN

East Charleroi Foreigner Shoots Himself in the Chin

A young foreign miner of East Charleroi last night after taking on a cargo of bilge water secured the loan of a gun, and started out to have some fun. There were a number of young fellows in the bunch, it is stated, and the miner with the gun decided to entertain things a trifle. He began firing in the air, but in his wildness fired a bullet into his jaw. Dr. F. W. Patton was called from Charleroi and the young fellow taken home. He is seriously but not necessarily fatally injured. The bullet entered the chin and took an upward course lodging in the upper part of the mouth.

ITALIAN CARELESS WITH GUN

Fails to Examine Revolver Before Pulling Trigger

IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Bullet Wound Above Heart Serious But Not Necessarily Fatal

Thinking a revolver he had in his hands was unloaded, Frank Sosunelle, an Italian 21 year old, of 117 Luella avenue made the mistake of pulling the trigger yesterday afternoon and is now at the Monessen Charleroi hospital suffering from a bullet wound above the heart. He will probably recover, but the wound is a serious one.

Sosunelle was with a number of friends, it is stated, and displayed a gun. He thought all the shells had been removed from the chambers and playfully pointing it toward his heart, indicated that he was going to try to commit suicide. A report followed and the young man fell to the floor.

Physicians were hurriedly summoned and after the wound had been dressed as well as possible the young man was taken to the hospital. It is not thought the bullet entered the lung, but unless some outlook for development set in he will live. Sosunelle was unmarried.

POLICEMAN WEARIES HIMSELF PURSUING PHANTOM VISITOR

Charleroi's "Woman in Black," which for some mysterious reason was somewhat late in making her appearance this fall, is nevertheless successful in her prime move of getting people all wrought up. The mysterious personage supposed to have come from Monongahela, is said to have stopped several persons on the street, and by her ghostly appearance and mysterious behavior much frightened them. The police force has been informed of her existence, and it is stated, last night one of the officers wasted a lot of personal effort trying to locate her.

BIG TEAMS WILL PLAY AT MONESSEN

The Monessen All Star Football team will line up against the heavy Roscoe team at Monessen Saturday to play for the championship of the Monongahela valley. These same teams met once before and the game resulted in a 0-0 score. Roscoe is much heavier but for this Monessen makes up in speed. Both teams are practicing hard in preparation for the contest and both are in good condition. The Monessen team was strengthened this week by the arrival of a college coach.

ZELTS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

The grand jury yesterday entered indictments against Jacob Zelt, Jr., and Adam Zelt, charged with assault and battery on an overseer of election in the First ward in Washington. The complainant against the men was Jacob Cline, overseer in the second precinct of the First ward, during the election. The case comes up for trial today.

WORKING OUT NEW PLAN FOR AIDING THE MINERS

Schools Being Started in Various Places For Which Literature is Provided by Y. M. C. A. Organizations

LECTURERS WILL COME LATER IN SEASON

In pursuance of a plan inaugurated at a meeting of mining men in Charleroi a number of mining schools are being established in various parts of Washington county, within In pector F. W. Cunningham's 21st district. Schools are likewise being established in other counties. On Saturday evening there will be a meeting of superintendents and mine officials here for the purpose of deciding upon places for the location of more schools, and to make arrangements for starting them. It is probable that there will be at least six or seven of them.

Dr. Crane, the dean of the State College mining school, has promised Inspector Cunningham that he will come to this section some time in the future to give lectures at various places. It is proposed to have him lecture in at least three places, Monongahela, which is in the First bituminous district and Charleroi and Brownsville in the Twenty-first district. Technical schools of Pittsburg have likewise promised to send out a man to give lectures.

The mining schools are being established partly through the help of the Y. M. C. A. Inspector Cunningham is getting a large part of his literature from the Y. M. C. A. Last night a school was started at Roscoe by Mr. Cunningham and John J. Kairnes, who is a mine foreman at a Vesta mine. Another one has been established at Vesta.

GRAND JURY TURNS DOWN MEMORIAL HALL PROJECT

WARD PARDON IS REFUSED

At a meeting of the State Board of Pardon which met at Harrisburg last Wednesday, the petition for pardon for Frederick W. Ward, the Pittsburg promoter who is serving a sentence in the Western Penitentiary on a charge of conspiracy, was rejected. Ward was convicted, being charged with defrauding a bank at Coal Centre.

County Seat Proposition Fails to Meet With Favor

FINANCES DO NOT ADMIT

Too Many Improvements on and for Matter to Be Considered

Before being discharged yesterday the grand jury at Washington disapproved the petition of Washington citizens for the erection of a soldiers and sailors memorial hall at the county's expense. The report of the proceeding is as follows:

"The grand jury had this matter under consideration and after consulting the proper authorities on the financial condition of the county and finding that the bonds outstanding at the present time is $1,400,000 with the prospects of other bonds issued to build West Brownsville bridge and 30 miles of road approved by former grand juries, for this reason we do not approve the building of said memorial at the present time."

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY

Today, the third month of school, ends of what promises to be one of the most successful school terms in the history of the Charleroi schools. Reports will be made to Superintendent J. G. Pentz within the next few days by the teachers and it is expected that they will show a good increase in attendance. The board will probably not hold any meeting until December 1, which will be the regular date.

There will not be any school on Thanksgiving or the day after, owing to the fact that many of the teachers residing in other communities want to spend Thanksgiving time at their homes.

Mining Schools

Through the efforts of Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham, assisted by the mine superintendents and foremen of this district, several mining schools have been established in the community by which lectures and technical instructions in mining are given free to all miners who may care to attend. This movement was started by the Y. M. C. A. in mining towns where that association was established, and it has proven eminently successful. It has been taken up by the State mining inspectors and assisted by local operators and officials. The object is to train young men to a higher degree of efficiency in mining, and to equip them to fill higher positions of responsibility and trust.

Since the movement started it has been given assistance by the State College officials in the way of lectures by its faculty. While this assistance has been voluntary and prompted by a desire to help the movement and to add to the efficiency of coal mining and its safety, these visits are not regular and must be timed to suit the convenience of the lecturers who have regular duties at the college. This has given rise to a suggestion that provisions be made for State educators to give regular instructions along this line. Comparatively few of the rank and file of the coal miners can attend State College, but they could attend night schools of instruction in their own communities. There is a field for much profitable work along this line.

The American Hen

It has been authoritatively stated that the American hen can produce wealth equal to the capital stock of all the banks of the New York Clearing House in three months and have a week to spare. That is, the value of the eggs produced in the United States in twelve weeks is equal to the capital stock of all the principal banking institutions of New York city, the center of wealth and capital of the United States. All these banks might "bust" and their entire capital stock be dissipated, but if the proceeds of all the eggs produced in twelve weeks were applied to rehabilitating these banks, they could resume again after a three months' suspension. Such is the power of the American hen as a money-maker, compared with the New York banking institutions.

While nearly every other source of wealth in Pennsylvania is industriously worked and utilized, the American hen has been neglected. The State only produces a paltry twenty million dollars' worth of eggs annually, only one-fifth of what is consumed by the people of the Commonwealth. The other four-fifths of the product is supplied from other States. In other words Pennsylvania consumes one hundred million dollars' worth of eggs each year, but only produces twenty million dollars' worth. Eighty million dollars are lost to the workers of the State which could as easily be kept at home as disbursed outside.

Here is an industry that could be applied in every community, and which would keep money at home and in circulation. Pittsburg commission houses and others get thousands of dollars from this community for eggs each year, which could be added to the wages fund here with very little effort and investment.

A Sensible View

The grand jury in session at Washington very wisely turned down the petition presented by Washington citizens for the erection of a soldiers and sailors memorial hall at county expense. In view of the fact that the bonded indebtedness of the county at the present time is nearly a million and a half of dollars and that subsequent bond issues must be floated for the road improvements to which the county is committed as well as a possible free bridges, the grand jury refused to approve the petition at the present time. Their action was based wholly on the grounds of economy and in the interests of the taxpayers.

A soldiers and sailors memorial hall is wholly in the nature of a monument, which is a public luxury, involving no utility. This is well enough when conditions favor, but at the present time too many monuments of utility are needed in Washington county to indulge in sentimental luxuries for the civic benefit of special community. The bridges at Monongahela, Donora and Belle Vernon are monuments that reflect the bounty of the county taxpayers in a practical instead of a sentimental way. A river boulevard would likewise be a more enduring monument and would benefit infinitely more people than a memorial that appeals merely to sentiment.

BIG GAME NEXT WEEK

Coming Football Struggle Attracts Local Attention

From present indications, all attendance records for football between Philadelphia and Chicago will be broken at Forbes Field, Pittsburg. Thanksgiving Day when the University of Pittsburg and Pennsylvania State College eleven clash for their annual championship game. Mail orders for tickets are being handled by Graduate Manager L. B. Hurst, 1317 Berger Building, Pittsburg, Pa. The prices are: Box seats $2.00; reserved $1.50 and $1.00. In addition, six thousand general admission tickets will be sold at Forbes Field on Thanksgiving Day at 50 cents each.

If, by any chance, Pitt should defeat State and by a larger score than the University of Pennsylvania did earlier in the season, Pitt will claim the championship of Pennsylvania. State was defeated by the Red and Blue 10-0, both touchdowns being scored by the Quakers as a result of fumbles. Philadelphia critics credit State with playing an even game with Penn and of having entirely the best of the argument in the third and fourth quarters. Last Saturday, the Blue and White defeated Bucknell by the score of 24-3, which gives some idea of its strength.

University of Pittsburg's eleven has scored 238 points in seven games and is one of the three large college teams in the United States which has not been scored on, the Navy and Minnesota being the other two. Its most notable achievements have been a 17-0 victory over Georgetown University, which last Saturday won the championship of the middle South by downing Virginia 15-0 and last Saturday a 14-0 victory over W. and J. which carried with it the title of Western Pennsylvania champions. This is the record defeat in succession by W. and J. at the hands of Pitt.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN COMING ATTRACTION

One of the prettiest and truest-to-nature stage pictures ever created is the cotton picking scene in the ever popular production of Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin, which is to be seen at Coyle Theatre, matinee and night, Friday, November 25. It is true fac-simile of an ideal home on the Red River, the setting having been constructed and painted from actual photographs, secured by Manager Washburn. Mr. Washburn is most exacting even in the most minor details of a production. Where another manager would be contented with paper mache plants, Manager Washburn must have the real article. He engaged the services of a chemist who finally produced a shellac by the use of which the cotton plant may be preserved in its natural state indefinitely. The several hundred plants used in the Stetson production are exactly as they were when removed from a Louisiana plantation in the height of the cotton picking season. Words utterly fail in even faintly depicting this beautiful picture. It must be seen to be appreciated. Special matinee and popular prices at night are announced.

A GEM OF POESY.

Maybe It Was the Heat That Made It Burst Into Being.
Stewart Edward White, William Kent and myself were hunting mountain sheep in the ranges of Mexican California. Perhaps because the savage heat of the desert which we were crossing had somehow gone to our brains we fell to making poetry upon various aspects of desert life. White rhapsodized upon the tarantula; Kent dithyrambed over the pack mule; I sang the dispraises of the jack rabbit. Finally White, who was cook for the day, offered a special prize of duff with raisins (the last remnant of our store) for the premier verse to be turned out before sunset. At noon we met up with a wandering prospector, who introduced himself as J. Noel Benson, native son of California, and observed upon learning of our literary efforts that he was some poet himself. On being invited to enter the list he retired to the top of a mesa, where the thermometer was something like 119 in the absence of shade, and after half an hour of self communion returned with the following gem of poesy:

THE GNAT.
The gnat he is a noisome mite.
He loves to buzz. He loves to bite.
He crawls upon you when you're hot.
I love the naughty gnat—nit—not!
The duff was awarded to him without protest from the other contestants. —Success Magazine.

THE PRINCE WINKED.

And Miss Alcott Was at the Other End of the Flirtation.

It seems an awful thing, but here is the circumstance on record that Louisa M. Alcott, the sainted author of "Little Women," once publicly flirted with Edward VII. The fact comes out in Mrs. Belle Mose's book, "Louisa May Alcott, Dreamer and Worker." There is a passage in the book which contains Miss Alcott's personal account of the incident. It refers to the time when the late king, then Prince of Wales, made his famous visit to this country. "I went to Boston," Miss Alcott relates, "and I saw the Prince of Wales trot over the common with his train at review—a yellow haired laddie, very like his mother, Fanny W. and I nodded and waved as he passed and he openly winked his boyish eye at us. For Fanny with her yellow curls and wild waving looked rather rowdy, and the poor little prince wanted some fun. We laughed and thought that we had been more distinguished by the saucy wink than by a stately bow. Boys are always jolly—even princes." By the way, this incident occurred in 1860, when the Prince of Wales was nineteen years old and consequently quite a brood of a boy, and when Miss Alcott—we blush to record it—was twenty-eight.—New York Mail.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Greenwich, Mo.—"I was simply a nervous wreck. I could not walk across the door without my heart fluttering and I could not even receive a letter. Every month I had such bearing-down sensation, as if the lower parts would fall out. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done my nerves a great deal of good and has also relieved my bearing down. I recommended it to some friends and two of them have been greatly benefited by it."—Mrs. J. A. KNIGHT, Greenich, Mo.
"I was so bothered with female weakness and bearing-down pains and nervous parts. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found the same relief. I have no more troubles at all."—Mrs. J. H. HAZEN, 5722
"I have been suffering from indigestion, nervous prostration, and many cases of female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women."

Puzzled the Packer.
The first organized work of women in a relief corps was led by Florence Nightingale in the Crimean war of 1855. So unaccustomed were people to that service at the time that it called out some curious comment. Writing of "Chinese" Gordon, Dr. Butler tells in his book, "Ten Great and Good Men," how the boys at Cambridge met the call upon them for hospital stores.
One day a letter came suddenly from the war office telling us that any warm clothes, for the invalids at Scutari would be prized by Miss Florence Nightingale. At once in every college a committee was extemporized of leading undergraduates, charged to collect presents of flannel jackets, trousers, "blazers," rugs, greatcoats, furs, even sealskins.
In a few hours box after box was filled with these treasures, and all the boxes were kindly and gratuitously packed for us by the leading upholsterer of the town, his foreman simply remarking to me in a tone which General Gordon would have enjoyed:
"A nice consignment for a lady, sir."

Cause of Twilight.
Twilight is a phenomenon caused by atmospheric refraction. When the sun gets below the horizon we are not immediately plunged into the darkness of night. Although the sun is below our horizon, rays of solar light are bent or refracted by the terrestrial atmosphere and continue to furnish some slight illumination. The process continues with diminishing intensity until the sun is so far below the horizon that the refracting power of the atmosphere is no longer able to bend the rays enough to produce a visible effect. The time after sunset that the sun reaches such a position varies with the latitude of the place. There is less twilight at the tropic zone than at the temperate or frigid zone. This is due to less time taken by the sun's rays to pass through the atmosphere, at the tropic zone the sun's rays being perpendicular and at the temperate and frigid zones oblique.—New York American.

With a Grain of Salt.
The earliest record of the saying "with a grain of salt" dates back to the year 63 B. C., when the great Pompey entered the palace of Mithridates and discovered among his private papers the description of an antidote against poisons of all sorts, which was composed of pounded herbs. These, according to the recipe, were to be taken with a grain of salt. Whether this was meant seriously or as a warning sarcasm is not known, but thenceforth it became the custom to say that doubtful preparations should be taken with a grain of salt. From this the meaning got transferred to sayings of doubtful truth. "Attie salt" was a Greek synonym for wit or penetration, and the Latin word "sal" had somewhat of the same meaning. It is thus easy to see how the saying "cum grano salis" could have come to mean the necessity of accepting doubtful or suspicious statements "with a grain of salt."

Molokai and the Lepers.
The general idea of the leper settlement on the island of Molokai is wrong, says a writer in Harpers Weekly. Instead of the entire island being used for the leper colony the settlement comprises only eight square miles out of a total area of 261 square miles. It occupies a tongue of land on the northern side of Molokai. The north, east and west shores of this tiny spit are washed by the Pacific, while on the south side rise precipitous cliffs of from 1,800 to 4,000 feet, which make the isolation seem even more hopeless than the beautiful deep blue waters of the sea ever could. The most difficult and dangerous trail, constantly manned by government guards, foils escape, if it were ever contemplated, by the land side.

Stupid Husband of a Noted Singer.
Catalani's husband, a handsome Frenchman, was even more unintellectual than his wife—he was stupid. Once, having found the pitch of the piano too high, she said after the rehearsal to her husband: "The piano is too high. Will you see that it is made lower before the concert?" When the evening came Catalani was annoyed to find that the piano had not been altered. Her husband sent for the carpenter, who declared that he had sawed off two inches from each leg, as he had been ordered to do. "Surely it can't be too high now, my dear," said the stupid husband soothingly.

Through the Cracks.
When the celebrated divine Edward Irving was on a preaching tour in Scotland two Dumfries men of decided opinions went to hear him. When they left the hall one said to the other: "Well, Willie, what do you think?" "Oh," said the other contemptuously, "the man's cracked!" The first speaker laid a quiet hand on his shoulder. "Will," said he, "you'll often see a light peeping through a crack."

A Poor Player.
Griggs—So you got home from the club at midnight. Well, I suppose you told wife you had to work late at the office. Played upon her sympathies, eh? Briggs—Well—er—yes, but 'twer her sympathies were out of tune or I'm a darned poor instrumentalist.—Boston Transcript.

Good and Sufficient Reason.
Editor—But, my good fellow, why do you bring this poem to me? Impecunious One—Well, sir, because I hadn't a stamp, sir.—London Tatler.

Opportunity seldom comes with a letter of introduction.

When the Hen Crows.
Willsford in his "Nature Secrets" (1858) writes:
"Beasts eating greedily and more than they need to do prenotes foul weather, and all small cattle that seem to rejoice with playing and sporting themselves foreshows rain. Crows and all kinds of neat, if you do at any time observe them to hold up their heads and snuffle in the air or lick their hooves or their bodies against the hair, expect then rainy weather. Asses or mules rubbing often their ears or braying much more than usually they are accustomed presages rain. Hogs crying and running up and down with hay or litter in their mouths foreshows a storm to be near at hand. The little sable beast called a flea if much thirsting after blood it argues rain. The cock if he crows in the daytime very much or at sunset or when he is at roost at unusual hours, as at 9 or 10, expect some change of weather and that suddenly, but from fair to foul or the contrary. But when the hen crows good men expect a storm within doors and without."

Lured Into Bathing.
In a railway carriage chat the other day a London medical man told a good story which had come within his own experience. A mother was frequently bringing her child to him for treatment, but the doctor could discover nothing amiss except its need of a good wash. She was certain the infant was suffering from some terrible complaint and begged the doctor to do his best. He prescribed a daily wash with the water in which potatoes had been peeled. Never suspecting that this was merely a ruse to get the child washed, the mother followed the instructions to the letter. Rosy cheeks appeared, and a clean, healthy looking child gladdened the mother's heart. She sounded the doctor's praises everywhere and advised other mothers to test the efficacy of potato water. It never occurred to her that precisely the same result would have followed the daily application of soap and water.

A Spanish Ship Treasure.
In 1762 the largest bulk of treasure ever taken from a ship at sea was brought into London. It was the whole of the cargo of the Spanish ship Hermione, captured on May 21 by H. M. S. Active. The Hermione surrendered to the Active without an action, and the treasure was landed at Portsmouth and conveyed to London in twenty decorated wagons, with British colors over Spanish and an escort party of sailors. The strange procession reached London on Aug. 12, the day on which George IV. was born. On being sold the treasure realized £519,705 1s. 6d., and the share of the officers and men of the Active was as follows: The captain, £65,033 13s. 9d.; three commissioned officers, each £13,004 13s. 1d.; eight warrant officers, each £4,336 3s. 2d.; twenty petty officers, each £1,806 1s. 8d.; 158 seamen, each £485 5s. 4d.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Jury Penalties
Nowadays no penalty is enforced when the twelve men chosen to form the jury are unable to agree upon a verdict. Formerly, however, a refractory juror was committed to prison and the verdict of the eleven was taken. In the reign of King Edward III. the judges decided that a verdict given by a majority was a nullity and recommended that the judges should carry the jury about with them in a cart till they should agree. The old custom that jurors should fast until they had agreed in their verdict prevailed long, but was mercifully relaxed somewhat in Tudor times, and during Queen Elizabeth's reign a banquet was usually given to the jury by the successful party to a suit.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Cheese and Cheese.
A medical authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. "This is a fact that we have suspected for a considerable time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference unless he waits for results?"

There is cheese so thoroughly disguised in the costume and aroma of decay that its proper standing on the sanitary testing table would puzzle a conjurer.

For instance, there is the brand known as limburger. But why pursue the subject?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Circumventing Papa.
"Reginald, I'm awfully sorry, but papa says he doesn't want to see you coming here any more."
"Goodie, your father's wish is law. He shall not see me again if I can help it. What evenings in the week does he spend downtown?"—Chicago Tribune.

Force of Habit.
"A thousand stars are looking down on you this night," said the poetical young man to the girl.
And she unconsciously put her hands up to arrange the position of her hat.

Official.
"We have had an official warning not to burn much gas this month."
"I never heard of such a thing."
"Oh, yes; it was last month's bill!"—Buffalo Express.

Made It Clear.
Now, Clarice, says the Boston Globe, don't get these things twisted: You eat bivalves, see through binoculars, ride bicycles, wish you had bipsanes and marry hipeds.

PERSISTENT BEGGARS.

The More Egyptian Mendicants Got the More They Demand.

In Egypt one should never give a bakshish except for actual services rendered. Resist calmly but firmly every attempt at extortion. Never pay till the stipulated service is finished; then, after you have paid a little more than the bargain called for, turn a deaf ear to the protestations and entreaties that always follow. Bear in mind that the more bakshish you give the more clamorous becomes the applicant. Real thanks and gratitude must not be expected for gifts.

A friend of mine once broke one of these rules just to see what would happen. As we passed through a little mud village twenty miles from Cairo he gave a sturdy beggar a millime-half a cent. This beggar, accompanied by others, followed us to the edge of the village, asking for more. My friend then gave him a plaster of cents.

They followed us a hundred yards or so and were more persistent than before. When they showed a disposition to go back he gave them 5 plasters. They followed us half a mile and became very clamorous. I was afraid we should get into trouble and wanted him to stop it, but when they began to tug he gave them 20 plasters. They followed us two miles, and the experiment might have ended seriously had we not met a company of travelers with a dragoman, who sent the beggars about their business. This may help you to understand Egyptian character.—Christian Herald.

LAPLAND BABIES.

For Their First Few Months They Live In Wicker Baskets.

Little Laplanders spend the first few months of their existence in baskets of wickerwork provided at the top with a conical framework too close for the baby to fall through and yet giving the infant plenty of light and air.

Before commencing her work for the day the Lapp mother places her child in the basket and hangs it on the limb of some nearby tree, occupation being found for the little one by stringing toys under a cord passed across the top of the basket.

Thus provided the child spends the entire day in the open and yet at the same time is guarded from the troubles and dangers of outdoor child life in other countries.

The basket idea curiously parallels the Indian idea of strapping the papoose into a carrying case, but the Lapp baby has the advantage over its Indian fellow in that its limbs are unconfined and a certain amount of liberty of movement is afforded.

The child is carried from place to place in the same basket, the cord by which it is attached to a tree being slung over the shoulder.

Fossils and Gold.

In Alaska the bones and often the entire bodies of extinct animals, such as the mammoth, the mastodon, the reindeer and the bison, are found more abundantly in layers of soil directly above gold bearing gravels. So intimate is this association between fossil animal remains and auriferous deposits that one scientist who has explored Alaska says fossils serve prospectors as indexes of the metallic richness of the soil. In ancient times both gold and the bones of animals were deposited at the bottoms of valleys by action of rivers and smaller streams, many of which have now disappeared; consequently the appearance of fossils is, it is claimed, an almost certain indication that gold will be found in the neighborhood. The cabins of many miners are ornamented with huge tusks and antlers unearthed in the diggings.—New York Tribune.

Definite Instructions.

Telegraphers have their troubles, like the rest of mankind, and the men who follow the dots and dashes tell stories based upon actual happenings that almost test the credulity of the hearer. A man now in charge of a Postal office is responsible for the following, which occurred to him when he was holding down a key in an obscure place in the suburbs:

"A farmer came in one day and handed me a message to Mrs. Smith, New York city. I asked for the address, and my patron, looking at me with a pitying smile, replied:

"Sonny, you just send it to Mrs. Smith, who keeps a boarding house in New York. Don't let any one know you don't know where her place is."—Philadelphia Times.

Followed Instructions.

She was a woman of very practical notions, and when she came into his room to kiss her little boy good night and found that he had not said his prayers she was very much shocked. "How was it, Willie," she asked, "that you neglected such an important duty?"

"You see, mamma," he replied, "when dad sent me in a hurry to bed he said there mustn't be another word out of me tonight."—Lippincott's.

AFRAID OF MOONLIGHT.

The Reason Porto Ricans Carry Umbrellas at Night.

"The majority of Porto Ricans have instilled in them from earliest infancy a superstitious dread of the full moon's rays," said a business man who has just returned from that country.

"It is a curious sight to the American visitor to note men and women going along the streets and highways of the island with umbrellas raised over their heads in the long watches of the night, and the more brilliantly the moon is shining the greater will be the number of people who are thus protecting themselves from her beams. Out in the sequestered rural districts a gay mounted cavalier will be met at mid night, his bridle rein in one hand and an upraised umbrella in the other. It looks weird and also ridiculous, but the natives do it for a peculiar reason. They are possessed of the conviction that Luna's full light striking upon mortals is almost sure to make them mentally unsound—that is to say, lunatics—and that is why they interpose a shield between them and her dazzling brightness.

"To sleep where the moon could shine full upon one is, in the view of a Porto Rican, to tempt fate, and it would be a daring one who could be hired to do it for any consideration."—Baltimore American.

STRENUOUS LIVING.

A Long Day in the Life of an English Lady in 1791.

As for industrious idleness, which is held to blame for the wrecking of our nervous systems, it was not unknown to an earlier generation. Miss de Brun assures us that in her youth pleasure loving people would leave Brussels early in the morning, travel all day to Paris to hear the opera and travel all night home. "That," she observes—as well she may—"was considered being fond of the opera."

A paragraph in one of Horace Walpole's letters gives us the record of a day and a night in the life of an English lady—sixteen hours of "strain" which would put New York to the blush. "I heard the Duchess of Gordon's Journal of last Monday," he writes to Miss Berry in the spring of 1791. "She first went to hear Handel's music in the abbey; she then clambered over the benches and went to Hastings's trial in the hall, after dinner to the play, then to Lady Lucan's assembly, after that to Ranelagh and returned to Mrs. Hobert's faro table; gave a ball herself in the evening of that morning, into which she must have got a good way, and set out for Scotland the next day. Her rules could not have accomplished a quarter of her labors in the same space of time."—Atlantic Monthly.

A Pretty Poor Portrait.

A Chinaman of very high rank had his portrait painted, and when it was finished the painter requested him to inquire of the passersby what they thought of it. The other agreed and asked the first comer:

"Do you think this portrait like?"

"The hat is extremely like," replied the critic.

The subject of the portrait asked a similar question of a second stranger who answered that the clothes seemed to be exactly reproduced. He was about to interrogate a third when the painter stopped him and said impatiently:

"The resemblance of the hat and clothes is of no importance. Ask this gentleman what he thinks of the face."

On being asked this question the stranger hesitated a very long time, but at last he replied:

"The beard and hair are first rate."

London as It Was.

Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates" makes the statement that the old name of the city of London was written Lyndon or Lyndin, meaning "the city on the lake." An old tradition gives us to understand that London was founded by brute, a descendant of Aeneas, and called New Troy or Troynovant until the time of Lud, who surrounded the town with walls and named it Caer-Lud, or Lud's Town. This latter is probably the correct version of the story, if for no other reason because it is an easy matter to detect a similarity between the expression Lud's Town and London. It is claimed by some writers that there was a city on the same spot 1,107 years B. C., and it is known that the Romans founded a city there called Londinium A. D. 61.

Real Modesty.

"An actor should be modest, and most actors are," said a prominent one at a luncheon in Pittsburgh. "But I know a young actor who at the beginning of his career carried modesty almost too far."

"This young man inserted in all the dramatic papers a want advertisement that said:

"Engagement wanted—small part, such as dead body or outside shouts preferred."

Preferences.

"I think I'll spend my vacation on the lynx," said the first flea. "I'm fond of golf."

"The giraffe for mine," declared the second flea. "I need the highest altitude I can find."—Washington Herald.

MEN OF ACTION.

Served as an Illustration For the Professor's Lecture.

"How did you like Professor Newman?" one of the summer residents of Willowby asked Mr. Miram Gale. "I saw his name on the list of lecturers in your last winter's course."

Mr. Gale stroked his chin reflectively.

"Well, some thought he was kind of stiff in his speech at first, but I tell you what happened:

"He got kind of worked up telling what 'men of action' meant, what the government of these United States was doing in Alaska, the Philippines, and so on, and he stepped a little too high, the edge of the platform and lost his balance. But as he began to fall, Mr. Robert and Pick Willis, that were the front seat, stood up and caught him, one by each arm, and brought him up steady. He bowed out at his knees for a minute, but nothing more of it."

"And," says Pick to him, "The word you spoke was 'university' and 'mob' before you knowed you'd give us some kind of a bit 'bout it mean."

"The professor looked from Pick and back to Pick again, kind of dazed, and then he began to laugh."

"You let me mount," he says, "and I'll see to it that the rest of my talk is such you won't need a dictionary. And he kept his promise."

"Yes, sir, he gave us a fine talk after that, and he's coming again. I had him to breakfast next morning and my wife said she wouldn't want to hear anybody talk more sensibly, yet more common and friendly than I did. But there was a piece in the Sentinel next week referring to Pick as Sam as 'University's men of action,' and I reckon the name'll stick to 'em as they live." Youth's Companion.

TRIED TO BE NICE.

But Fannie Made an Awful Mess of It With the Old Lady.

"When Fannie is bent upon pleasing," sighed Fannie's younger sister, "she can certainly make a big mess of things." Fannie, having arrived at the point where he felt he wanted to express his opinion of her, invited her both up to take tea with his mother. The minute he laid eyes on his mother, Fannie would get in trouble, she simply can't help getting nervously foolish when there's a roll in her reason around.

"Charlie's mother kissed us and, addressing herself to Fannie as the elder said something about our being very sweet to come and see a daughterless old woman. Whereat Fannie looked at Charlie and his two brothers and replied feelingly that it must be a terrible disappointment to have out, them. Mrs. Evans, to rectify my sister's misapprehension, told us proudly that she had three more sons, not present."

"By this time Fannie realized that she had made a bad beginning and leaped further in with the supposition that the other three were off having a good time instead of moping at home. The older lady drew herself up and said severely:

"My three sons are in heaven, Miss Barnes."

"Oh, how awful!" came Fannie's ready gasp.

"No, not awful at all," and Mrs. Evans was positively glaring at us. "I feel that they were specially blessed in being allowed to pass thus early to their Lord. They died as little children."

"Dear me, how glad you must have been!" blurted out dustered Fannie.

"By this time I had kicked a hole in the ankle, and that quieted her for awhile. She might have kept still for the rest of the evening had not her subject, the higher education of woman, come up for the old lady's disapproval. Then Fannie made a hand spring into the conversation by remarking that when we had more educated mothers there would be less infant mortality."

"And, mind you, Fannie was really trying to be nice for my sake."—New York Times.

Arctic Rock Weed.

Drifting down from Alaska comes the greatest of all sea plants, the arctic rock weed, that grows in shape like a huge ship's hauser and sometimes with branches 500 feet long. There are no signs of leaves, but at intervals of a fathom or so a knob, for all the world like the buoy on a drift net, grows around the stem, aiding, as does the buoy, in keeping the plant afloat and creating the impression that some nets have gone astray.—New York World.

Method in Her Breakage.

"Augusta is an awfully bright girl, isn't she?"

"Yes, indeed. When she is reading a novel on the front porch her mother never thinks of asking her to wash the dishes."

"Why not?"

"She's sure to break so many of them."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Trouble Ahead.

Young Wife—I know. That's what she wants to see you about. She read the telegram.

Lived in a Good Neighborhood.

Six Follies of Science.

The six follies of science are the squaring of the circle, perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life, magic and astrology.

In all ages men of undoubted ability have toiled early and late to unravel the mysteries supposed to be connected with these fascinating problems. It is not always remembered that such intellectual giants as Bacon, Sir Robert Boyle and Sir Isaac Newton sought the philosopher's stone. In the study of astrology Lilly was for a time even pensioned by parliament.

Most of these "follies" conferred indirect benefits upon science, for in seeking one thing their devotees discovered many another. The craze for the secret, or unknown, has still its hold upon men and is seen in palmistry and kindred cults.

GOVERNOR-ELECT TELLS OF FIGHT BEING MADE AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Says State Department of Health is Doing Wonderful Work to Prevent Disease

FINAL MEETING IS HELD

Report of Monessen Dispensary Made By Dr. Cramer, Showing Large Number of Cases Treated

At the closing meeting of a three-days' session of the State Tuberculosis Exhibit at Monessen Opera House last night, Governor-elect J. K. Tener presided and made a short address in which he told something of the work that is being done to prevent the spread of the White Plague over the State. He introduced the other speakers of the evening, Dr. M. J. Cramer of Monessen, who is in charge of the local dispensary, and Dr. John A. Brouse, who is in charge of the exhibit.

Mr. Tener in his speech said that in his travels over the State during his campaign he was surprised and astounded at the work being done by the State Department of Health towards preventing tuberculosis and to save lives. He said that in this respect Pennsylvania was a leader among the States of the Union, and made the statement that while many were finding fault with the size of appropriations which were being made by the State to carry on the fight he thought that from the evidences of the good that is being done it was not too much and that if any change were made it should be for an increase.

Dr. M. J. Cramer made a report of the work that has been done by the Monessen dispensary during the past year. He said that 343 cases have been reported, 210 of which were positive. Forty were in the last stages. Twenty-two deaths resulted from the disease. The nurse in charge made 2,045 visits to patients, and patients have 2,000 visits to the dispensary. Eleven had been sent to the sanitarium at West Alto.

Dr. Brouse spoke of the work that is being done to prevent the spread of the disease. The exhibit goes to Monongahela today.

TRUE BILL IS RETURNED IN MURDER CASE

Donora Foreigner Held For Trial on Charge of Shooting Man

After being indicted by the grand jury yesterday for the murder of Tedor Cap at Donora and for felonious assault and battery on Josephine Cap, wife of the murdered man, Pete Burkovskij is today in jail awaiting to go on trial for his life. The case has made a record in reaching court for trial. The alleged crime was committed on Tuesday, the murderer captured a few hours after the crime and brought before the grand jury yesterday. The trial is scheduled for next week but it is doubtful whether it will take place then, owing to the fact that the counsel for the defendant will probably need more time to prepare a defense.

Donora Foreigner Held For Trial on Charge of Shooting Himself in the Chin

A young foreign miner of San Charleroi last night after taking on a cargo of blige water secured the loan of a gun, and started out to have some fun. There were a number of young fellows in the bunch, it is stated, and the miner with the gun decided to entertain things a trifle. He began firing in the air, but in his wiliness fired a bullet into his jaw. Dr. F. W. Patton was called from Charleroi and the young fellow taken home. He is seriously but not necessarily fatally injured. The bullet entered the chin and took an upward course lodging in the upper part of the mouth.

Fails to Examine Revolver Before Pulling Trigger

IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Bullet Wound Above Heart Serious But Not Necessarily Fatal

Thinking a revolver he had in his hands was unloaded, Frank Sosunelle, an Italian 21 year old of 117 Luella avenue made the mistake of pulling the trigger yesterday afternoon and is now at the Monessen Charleroi hospital suffering from a bullet wound above the heart. He will probably recover, but the wound is a serious one.

Sosunelle was with a number of friends, it is stated, and displayed a gun. He thought all the shells had been removed from the chambers and playfully pointing it toward his heart, indicated that he was going to try to commit suicide. A report followed and the young man fell to the floor.

Physicians were hurriedly summoned and after the wound had been dressed as well as possible the young man was taken to the hospital. It is not thought the bullet entered the lung, and unless some untoward developments set in he will live. Sosunelle was unmarried.

POLICEMAN WEARIES HIMSELF PURSUING PHANTOM VISITOR

Charleroi's "Woman in Black," which for some mysterious reason was somewhat late in making her appearance this fall, is nevertheless successful in her prime work of getting people all wronged up. The mysterious personage supposed to have come from Monongahela, is said to have stopped several persons on the street, and by her ghostly appearance and mysterious behavior much frightened them. The police force has been informed of her existence and it is stated, last night one of the officers wasted a lot of personal effort trying to locate her.

BIG TEAMS WILL PLAY AT MONESSEN

The Monessen All Star Football team will line up against the heavy Roscoe team at Monessen Saturday to play for the championship of the Monongahela valley. These same teams met once before and the game resulted in a 6-0 score. Roscoe is much heavier but for this Monessen makes up in speed. Both teams are practicing hard in preparation for the contest and both are in good condition. The Monessen team was strengthened this week by the arrival of a college coach.

WORKING OUT NEW PLAN FOR AIDING THE MINERS

Schools Being Started in Various Places For Which Literature is Provided by Y. M. C. A. Organizations

LECTURERS WILL COME LATER IN SEASON

In pursuance of a plan inaugurated at a meeting of mining men in Charleroi a number of mining schools are being established in various parts of Washington county, within Inpector F. W. Cunningham's 21st district. Schools are likewise being established in other counties. On Saturday evening there will be a meeting of superintendents and mine officials here for the purpose of deciding upon places for the location of more schools, and to make arrangements for starting them. It is probable that there will be at least six or seven of them. Dr. Crane, the dean of the State Coal mining school, has promised Inspector Cunningham that he will come to this section some time in the future to give lectures at various places. It is proposed to have him lecture in at least three places, Monongahela, which is in the First bituminous district and Charleroi and Brownsville in the Twenty first district. Technical schools of Pittsburg have likewise promised to send out men to give lectures. The mining schools are being established partly through the help of the Y. M. C. A. Inspector Cunningham is getting a large part of his literature from the Y. M. C. A. Last night a school was started at Roscoe by Mr. Cunningham and John J. Cairles, who is a mine foreman at a Vesta mine. Another one has been established at Vesta.

WARD PARDON IS REFUSED

At a meeting of the State Board of Pardons which met at Harrisburg last Wednesday, the petition for pardon for Frederick W. Ward, the Pittsburg promoter who is serving a sentence in the Western Penitentiary on a charge of conspiracy, was rejected. Ward was convicted, being charged with defrauding a bank at Coal Centre.

THIRD MONTH OF SCHOOL AT AN END TODAY

Reports Will Be Returned to Superintendent Pentz Shortly

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY

Today, the third month of school, ends of what promises to be one of the most successful school terms in the history of the Charleroi schools. Reports will be made to Superintendent J. G. Pentz within the next few days by the teachers and it is expected that they will show a good increase in attendance. The board will probably not hold any meeting until December 1, which will be the regular date. There will not be any school on Thanksgiving or the day after, owing to the fact that many of the teachers residing in other communities want to spend Thanksgiving time at their homes.

Mining Schools

Through the efforts of Mine Inspector F. W. Cunningham, assisted by the mine superintendents and foremen of this district, several mining schools have been established in the community by which lectures and technical instructions in mining are given free to all miners who may care to attend. This movement was started by the T. M. C. A. in mining towns where that association was established, and it has proven eminently successful. It has been taken up by the State mining inspectors and assisted by local operators and officials.

The object is to train young men to a higher degree of efficiency in mining, and to equip them to fill higher positions of responsibility and trust.

Since the movement started it has been given assistance by the State College officials in the way of lectures by its faculty. While this assistance has been voluntary and prompted by a desire to help the movement and to add to the efficiency of coal mining and its safety, these visits are not regular and must be timed to suit the convenience of the lecturers who have regular duties at the college. This has given rise to a suggestion that provisions be made for State educators to give regular instructions along this line. Comparatively few of the rank and file of the coal miners can attend State College, but they could attend night schools of instruction in their own communities.
There is a field for much profitable work along this line.

The American Hen

It has been authoritatively stated that the American hen can produce wealth equal to the capital stock of all the banks of the New York Clearing House in three months and have a week to spare. That is, the value of the eggs produced in the United State in twelve weeks is equal to the capital stock of all the principal banking institutions of New York city, the center of wealth and capital of the United States. All these banks might "burst" and their entire capital stock be dissipated, but if the proceeds of all the eggs produced in twelve weeks were applied to rehabilitating these banks, they could resume again after a three months' suspension. Such is the power of the American hen as a money-maker, compared with the New York banking institutions.

While nearly every other source of wealth in Pennsylvania is industriously worked and utilized, the American hen has been neglected. The State only produces a paltry twenty million dollars' worth of eggs annually, only one-fifth of what is consumed by the people of the Commonwealth. The other four-fifths of the product is supplied from other States. In other words Pennsylvania consumes one hundred million dollars' worth of eggs each year, but only produces twenty million dollars' worth.
Eighty million dollars are lost to the workers of the State which could as easily be kept as home as disbursed outside.

Here is an industry that could be applied in every community, and which would keep money at home and in circulation. Pittsburg commission houses and others get thousands of dollars from this community for eggs each year, which could be added to the wages fund here with very little effort and investment.

A Sensible View

The grand jury in session at Washington very wisely turned down the petition presented by Washington citizens for the erection of a soldiers and sailors memorial hall at county expense. In view of the fact that the bonded indebtedness of the county at the present time is nearly a million and a half of dollars and that subsequent bond issues must be voted for the road improvements to which the county is committed as well as a possible free bridges, the grand jury refused to approve the petition at the present time. Their action was based wholly on the grounds of economy and in the interests of the taxpayers.

A soldiers and sailors memorial hall is wholly in the nature of a monument, which is a public luxury, involving no utility. This is well enough when conditions favor, but at the present time too many monuments of utility are needed in Washington county to indulge in sentimental luxuries for the civic benefit of special community. The bridges at Monongahela, Donora and Belle Vernon are monuments that reflect the bounty of the county taxpayers in a practical instead of a sentimental way. A river boulevard would likewise be a more enduring monument and would benefit infinitely more people than a memorial that appeals merely to sentiment.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Charleroi's mysterious "Woman in always do sort of rick on the poor

That's all.

BIG GAME NEXT WEEK

Coming Football Strug- gle Attracts Local Attention

From present indications, all attendance records for football between Philadelphia and Chicago will be broken at Forbes Field, Pittsburg.
Thanksgiving Day when the University of Pittsburg and Pennsylvania State College eleven clash for their annual championship game. Mail orders for tickets are being handled by Graduate Manager L. B. Hurst, 1317 Berger Building, Pittsburg, Pa.
The prices are: Box seats $2.00; reserved $1.50 and $1.00. In addition, six thousand general admission tickets will be sold at Forbes Field on Thanksgiving Day at 50 cents each.

If, by any chance, Pitt should defeat State and by a larger score than the University of Pennsylvania did earlier in the season, Pitt will claim the championship of Pennsylvania.
State was defeated by the Red and Blue 10-0, both touchdowns being scored by the Quakers as a result of fumbles. Philadelphia critics credit State with playing an even game with Penn and of having entirely the best of the argument in the third and fourth quarters. Last Saturday, the Blue and White defeated Bucknell by the score of 35 to 3, which gives a new idea of its strength.

University of Pittsburg's eleven has scored 233 points in seven games and is one of the three large college teams in the United States which has not been scored on, the Navy and Minnesota being the other two. Its most stable achievements have been a 17-0 victory over Georgetown University, which last Saturday won the championship of the middle South by downing Virginia 15-0 and last Saturday's 14-6 victory over W. and J. which carried with it the title of Western Pennsylvania champion.
This is the first defeat in succession
by W. and J. at the hands of Pitt.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN COMING ATTRACTION

One of the prettiest and truest-to-nature stage pictures ever created is the cotton picking scene in the ever popular production of Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin, which is to be seen at Coyle Theatre, matinee and night, Friday, November 25. It is true fac-simile of an ideal home on the Red River, the setting having been constructed and painted from actual photographs, secured by Manager Washburn. Mr. Washburn is most exacting even in the most minor details of a production. Where another manager would be contented with paper mache plants, Manager Washburn must have the real article. He engaged the services of a chemist who finally produced a shellac by the use of which the cotton plant may be preserved in its natural state indefinitely. The several hundred plants used in the Stetson production are exactly as they were when removed from a Louisiana plantation in the height of the cotton picking season.
Words utterly fail in even faintly depicting this beautiful picture. It must be seen to be appreciated.
Special matinee and popular prices at night are announced.

A GEM OF POESY.

Maybe It Was the Heat That Made It Burst Into Being.
Stewart Edward White, William
Kent and myself were hunting mountain sheep in the ranges of Mexican California. Perhaps because the sarage heat of the desert which we were crossing had somewhat gone to our heads we fell to making up various aspects of desert life. White rhapsodized upon the tarantula; Kent dithyrambed over the pack mule; I sang the dispraises of the jack rabbit.
Finally White, who was cook for the day, offered a special prize of duff with misins (the last remnant of our store) for the premier verse to be turned out before sunset. At noon we met up with a wandering prospector, who introduced himself as J. Noel Benson, native son of California, and observed upon learning of our literary efforts that he was some poet himself.
On being invited to enter the list he retired to the top of a mesa, where the thermometer was something like 110 in the absence of shade, and after half an hour of self communion returned with the following gem of poesy:

THE GNAT.
The gnat he is a noisome mite
He loves to buzz He loves to bite.
He crawls upon you when you're hot.
I love the naughty gnat—nit—no!
The duff was awarded to him with our protest from the other contestants.

THE PRINCE WINKED.

And Miss Alcott Was at the Other End of the Flirtation.
It seems an awful thing, but here is the circumstance on record that Louisa M. Alcott, the sainted author of "Little Women," once publicly flirted with Edward VII. The fact comes out in Mrs.
Belle Mose's book, "Louisa May Alcott, Dreamer and Worker." There is a passage in the book which contains Miss Alcott's personal account of the incident. It refers to the time when the late king, then Prince of Wales made his famous visit to this country.
"I went to Boston," Miss Alcott relates, "and I saw the Prince of Wales trot over the common with his train at review—a yellow haired laddie, very like his mother Fanny W. and I nodded and waved as he passed and he openly winked his boyish eye at us for Fanny with her yellow curls and wild waving looked rather rowdy, and the poor little prince wanted some fun.
We laughed and thought that we had been more distinguished by the same wink than by a stately bow. Boys are always jolly—even princes."
By the way, this incident occurred in 1860, when the Prince of Wales was nineteen years old and consequently quite a broth of a boy, and when Miss Alcott—we blush to record it—was twenty-eight—New York Mail
